Women Leaders-Genevieve H. Brown 2012-02-01 Women Leaders: Advancing Careers recognizes that while the majority of students enrolled in educational leadership preparation programs continue to be women; women’s advancement to top school executive roles is still not comparable to that of men. Despite significant gains in the past decade, the biased treatment of women continues to be a barrier to their advancement to key administrative positions. The authors in Women Leaders: Advancing Careers have contributed significantly to the growing body of literature aimed at assisting the career advancement of women. Their research indicates that the concepts presented herein are critical to women’s leadership preparations, advancement, and success. Women Leaders: Advancing Careers melds history, theory, research, and practice to provide guidance to aspiring women administrators in developing a career path and in attaining and successfully performing in executive roles.

Effective Grading—Barbara E. Walvoord 2011-01-13 The second edition of Effective Grading—the book that has become a classic in the field—provides a proven hands-on guide for evaluating student work and offers an in-depth examination of the link between teaching and grading. Authors Barbara E. Walvoord and Virginia Johnson Anderson explain that grades are not isolated artifacts but part of a process that, when integrated with course objectives, provides rich information about student learning, as well as being a tool for learning itself. The authors show how the grading process can be used for broader assessment objectives, such as curriculum and institutional assessment. This thoroughly revised and updated edition includes a wealth of new material including: Expanded integration of the use of technology and online teaching A sample syllabus with goals, outcomes, and criteria for student work New developments in assessment for grant-funded projects Additional information on grading group work, portfolios, and service-learning experiences New strategies for aligning tests and assignments with learning goals Current thought on assessment in departments and general education, using classroom work for program assessments, and using assessment data systematically to "close the loop" Material on using the best of classroom assessment to foster institutional assessment New case examples from colleges and universities, including community colleges "When the first edition of Effective Grading came out, it quickly became the go-to book on evaluating student learning. This second edition, especially with its extension into evaluating the learning goals of departments and general education programs, will make it even more valuable for everyone working to improve teaching and learning in higher education." —L. Dee Fink, author, Creating Significant Learning Experiences

"Informed by encounters with hundreds of faculty in their workshops, these two accomplished teachers, assessors, and faculty developers have created another essential text. Current faculty, as well as graduate students who aspire to teach in college, will carry this edition in a briefcase for quick reference to scores of examples of classroom teaching and assessment techniques and ways to use students' classroom work in demonstrating departmental and institutional effectiveness." —Trudy W. Banta, author, Designing Effective Assessment

Topic: Peace and Conflict Studies, Security, grade: B, National Open University of Nigeria (Management Studies), course: Bsc. Peace studies and conflict management, language: English, abstract: The persistence of conflict in the Nigeria economy has continued to lead to the question what is particularly wrong. Whereas morale does not just occur but achieved by management through careful planning, creating a feeling of oneness between employees and management as a basic objective. Grievances, experience are partly cured and repression double endured. This research is an attempt to ascertain the viability of conflict management and personnel productivity; A case study of the Office of the Auditor General for Local Government Councils, Benue State. It is restricted on how effectively conflict could be managed having in mind the effects it has on personnel productivity in order to avoid any red tape that could lead to the hindrance of objectives and goals set by an organization. So also to seek the question: - Are the working condition of personnel and process of collective bargaining effectively enhanced? - To what extent has Departmental Head tried to alienate personnel conflict within their departments? - Does lack of good relation with personnel and departmental Heads affect the productivity of personnel? The above questions and many more, data collected shall be analyzed carefully in tabular form, interpreted based on the questionnaire showing the reaction of personnel staff were possible showing whether management does take workers demand seriously or until they decide on industrial action and possible recommendations on how best to manage employer, employee relations so as to avert if not possible minimize conflict. Thus data collected shall be analyzed carefully in tabular form, interpreted based on the questionnaire showing the reaction of employees reaction in the work environment where improvement would be solicited for effective productivity. Were possible showing the absence of conflict does not mean there is peace and harmony within the organization. Employees view as to whether management does take workers demand seriously or until they decide on industrial action and possible recommendations on how best to manage employer, employee relations so as to avert if not possible minimize conflict.
